To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to endorse Mr. Elvis Sanchez. He is a compassionate and supportive individual whose professionalism is a model for other students.

I've known Mr. Sanchez for several years, meeting him initially as he transitioned from high school to become a college freshman. It was clear at that first meeting that he possessed an attention to detail that would serve him well as he moved forward with his career.

Mr. Sanchez values accuracy. He has the ability to think through processes and situations, finding simple solutions for often complex problems, a particularly important skill for data management. This distinguishes him from the average college student. Mr. Sanchez is always proactive in his approaches, seeking reasonable solutions to personal and professional situations. He is punctual and supportive in all his interactions with college peers and staff. He maintains a high GPA and seeks out the necessary supports to remain a top achieving student at New York City College of Technology.

I strongly recommend Elvis Sanchez. He will bring energy and a knowledge base that will prove to be a great addition to your program.

Sincerely
