To,

Whomsoever it may concern

Elvis worked with my team and I from September 2019 to December 2019. Elvis performed front end testing and feature documentation for participant facing features at SPARK. During this time, Elvis worked with 3 other members of the product team and the broader SPARK clinical team.

Elvis is detail oriented. He provided detailed test feedback on the features he was testing. He would include user experience feedback, and include comparative applications to benchmark the performance, and suggest improvements to enhance the feature under test. He used JIRA and Google doc to communicate with the product team and the engineers. His feature feedback was detailed and useful that he was also assigned to improve product documentation.

Elvis was fun to work with as a member of the team. Elvis interacted with the product team as well as the wider 20 member SPARK clinical teams. During his tenure with the product team, Elvis attended workshops and meetings and took advantage of professional and personal development opportunities at the foundation. Everyone enjoyed interacting with Elvis.

Elvis will be a great asset to any team. His writing skills and interest in social media and technology will come in handy whichever project Elvis is a part of.

Thanks and Kind Regards
Swami
